

CUSTOMISED TRAINING PROGRAMMES

While there are already many industry-relevant course titles in the public domain, it is still unlikely that an organisation's needs and objectives will be fully addressed by any off-the-shelf course in a typical catalogue. This is because strategic or niche-scale training programmes will always require customisation, regardless of the varying scale.

The Logistics Academy understands this, and that's why we work with clients to tailor-made programmes according to individual organization demands and circumstances – from specific case studies to full bespoke development. Beginning with contents from our ever-expanding public-run suite of courses as the baseline, The Logistics Academy can create your customized programme to the best-suited in its class, without bursting your pockets in the process.

Following an opening discussion about key requirements from your enquiry – which may involve a Training Needs Analysis, with our Principal Lecturer, we follow through a process cycle to generate a business proposal. This document shall contain elements of scalability and flexibility to accommodate your inputs for tweaking towards your final acceptance.

Once this stage is reached, we proceed to develop the courseware, pilot with the resource persons, implement the run and final evaluate your training programme for effectiveness in achieving the objective outcome – which will be shared with you. The custom-made training programme will be as close to your learners' real-life working environment as it can, ensuring transfer of new knowledge and application of new skills is immediate when they go back to their workplace.

Come talk to us and you will not walk alone as together, our friendly team will work with you to find the fitting solution for your training needs!
